Dear President,

The British Academy Nayef Al-Rodhan Prize for Transcultural Understanding

It gives me great pleasure to write to you with regard to the above British Academy Prize.

The British Academy is pleased to invite nominations for the 2014 Nayef Al-Rodhan Prize for Transcultural Understanding. This major, new international prize, worth £25,000, was established last year to reward “outstanding academic achievement in transcultural understanding” and is designed to illustrate the interconnected nature of cultures and civilizations. Further details are available at http://www.britac.ac.uk/prizes/Nayef_Al-Rodhan_Prize.cfm.

The 2014 prize will be awarded at a special event held in London in autumn 2014.

We write to invite your Academy to nominate a candidate for this distinguished prize in 2014. A person nominated for the prize may be located anywhere in the world, and does not necessarily have to be resident in, or a national of, your Academy’s country. Eligible work can be from any humanities or social science discipline or disciplines, and may take the form of a book or equivalent body of work (such as a series of articles), published within the last five years (i.e. for the 2014 prize, published within the period 2009-2013). Work that has broad relevance is particularly encouraged. Nominated persons can be of any nationality and working in any language.

Nominations should be completed electronically, in English, on the attached form and emailed to the Prizes and Medals Office at prizes@britac.ac.uk (enquiries may also be made to this address). The closing date for nomination submissions is Friday 31 January 2014.

Yours,

Dr Robin Jackson
Chief Executive and Secretary, British Academy
